His father was a native of Burgundy, but had for some years before retired to Switzerland, where he supported himself by teaching mathematics and natural philosophy. The elder Le Sage appears to have been a man of talents, although not of the Id the biographical sketch of Lord Stanhope, which was inserted in our number for February, we inadvertently fell into an error, in confounding the works of M. Le Sage, his Lordship s tutor, the subject of our present memoir, with M. B. G. Sage, of Paris, Professor of Chemistry and Mineralogy in l Ecole des Mines de la Monnoie. The error was pointed out to us by a friend, and we were induced, from this circumstance, to examine the interesting account of the life of Le Sage, of Geneva, drawn up by Prof. Prevost, from which we have principally extracted the materials of the present memoir. Vol. XI. N IV. Q firstorder, and at the same time to have possessed a singular disposition and train of sentiments, -which had a very marked influence upon the character and pursuits of his son. He was the author of a considerable number of treatises, upon a great diversity of topics, metaphysics, belles lettres, natural philosophy, and economics; but we believe that their reputation has not extended. into this country. The...
