The lowest frequency of 20 per second is employed at Messrs. Bally and Sons boot and shoe factory, Schoenenwerd. In this installation the alternator is attached to the vertical shaft of a Jonval low-pressure turbine, running at 30 revolutions per minute, so that even with so low a periodicity as 20, no less than 80 poles are required, and it was found necessary to put exciting coils on one set of poles only. The single-phase synchronous alternate-current motor, being simply an alternator reversed, requires only two conductors to transmit the power, and is called synchronous because it must run at one constant speed in synchronism with the generator. The use of such motors is limited, because (1) they require to be separately excited by continuous currents; (2) they will not start themselves, having practically no initial torque; and (3) they are extremely liable...
